

La généalogie de Constantin

Constantine is portrayed in a striking double image with the god Apollo on this coin minted early in 313, within months of the Battle of the Milvian Bridge. Apollo's solar crown emphasizes his identity with the popular sun god, Sol Invictus, and is consistent with solar connections in Constantine's propaganda during these years.

Constantius II.

